COMMENTS: Candidate emailed in his reconsideration request. He states that he doesn't deserve the fine because he followed all instructions as written in packet and as told verbally via phone calls. He said that because this process took time to make and return phone calls and to mail and return forms the forms were received late in our office. He said he started the process in plenty of time and once 3rd parties got involved the time clock should have stopped. He said to summarize 1- Staff was notified before the form was delinquent that the form was not in his packet and he did not have any more activity to report. 2 - phone call stated he needed to fill out form anyway and would be sent to me and was filled out and returned. 3 - upon final phone call he felt assured that he had completed all campaign reports in timely fashion

I would like to request a reconsideration of 40 G report. I don't deserve a fine because I followed all instructions as written in packet and as told verbally via phone calls. Because this process took time to make and return phone calls and to mail and return forms , the forms were received late at your office . A verbal report was given over the phone at the first phone call and the previous report stated I did not have any more forms and this would be my last report because I had nothing else to report . What I'm trying to say is that I started the process in plenty of time and once 3rd parties got involved (mail, voicemail boxes) the time clock should have stopped . To summarize 1- you were notified before form was delinquent that the form was not in my packet and I did not have anymore activity to report . 2- phone call stated I needed to fill the form out anyway and one would be sent to me and was filled out and returned 3- upon final phone call I felt assured that I had completed all campaign reports in a timely fashion

Thank you for your time and consideration on this matter.      Randall (Randy) Armentor
